

Familial occurrence of oligodendroglial tumours

Click here for immediate access to the latest key research articles

Authors: T. Flannery <sup>a</sup>; D. Cawley <sup>a</sup>; A. Zulfiger <sup>a</sup>; Y. Alderazi <sup>b</sup>; J. Heffernan <sup>b</sup>; F. Brett <sup>b</sup>; M. Farrell <sup>b</sup>; D. F. O'Brien <sup>a</sup>

Affiliations: <sup>a</sup> Departments of Neurosurgery,

<sup>b</sup> Neuropathology, Beaumont Hospital, Dublin, Ireland

DOI: 10.1080/02688690701818950

Publication Frequency: 6 issues per year

Published in:  British Journal of Neurosurgery, Volume 22, Issue 3 June 2008 , pages 436 - 436

Subject: Neurosurgery;

Formats available: HTML (English) : PDF (English)

Abstract

Two non-identical brothers were diagnosed with anaplastic oligoastrocytoma within 4 months of each other and a maternal grandmother was diagnosed with oligodendroglioma 21 years previously. Familial clustering of oligodendrogliomas is rare.

Keywords: Familial clustering; oligodendroglial tumours

Bookmark with:  CiteULike  Del.icio.us  BibSonomy  Connotea
More bookmarks 