

A service of the U.S. National Library of Medicine and the National Institutes of Health

Select 19139824

1: J Neurooncol. 2009 Jul;93(3):401-4. Epub 2009 Jan 13.

Primary CNS lymphoma presenting as fever of unknown origin.

Salih SB, Saeed AB, Alzahrani M, Al Qahtani M, Haider A, Palker V.

Department of Medicine, King Saud Bin Abdulaziz University for Health Sciences, King Abdulaziz Medical City, Riyadh, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. binsalihs@ngha.med.sa

We report a case of fever of unknown origin in an immunocompetent patient as the first manifestation of primary central nervous lymphoma. To our knowledge this is the first reported case in the literature of this association. We recommend brain imaging to be considered in patients presenting with fever of unknown origin and no apparent diagnosis after extensive investigation.

Publication Types:

- Case Reports

PMID: 19139824 [PubMed - indexed for MEDLINE]
